Never opened a DAW? Start making music in a browser tab. When the mix sounds off, the AI tells you what to change and why.

Build from samples. Your library lives in your account, so the same project opens on whichever computer you sit down at.

Stop emailing project files. Invite your crew, edit the same session at once, and talk it through in the project chat.

What you can make with it

A full sequencer in a browser tab

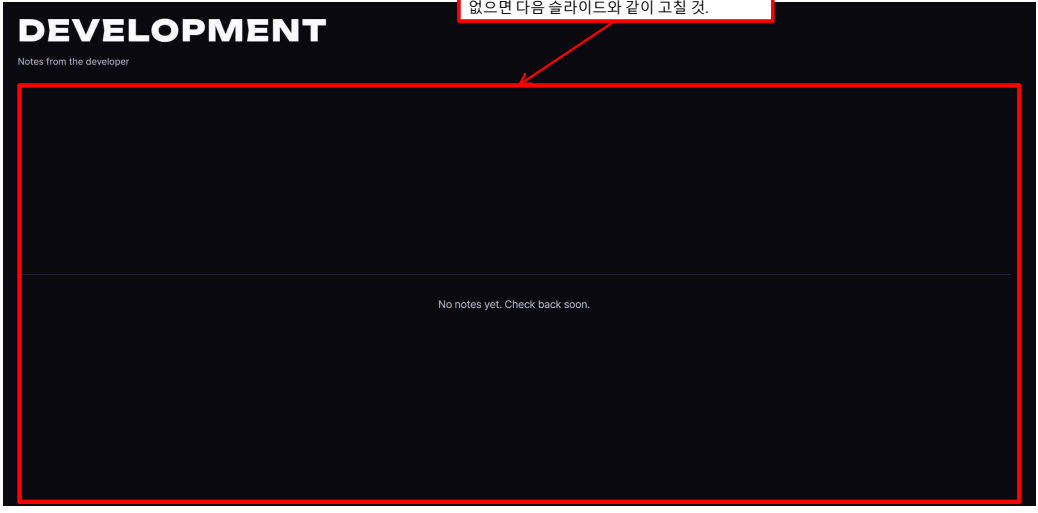

Drop samples from your desktop into your own library, draw notes on the piano roll or play them in on a MIDI keyboard, and shape them with web-native synths and effects. Export to WAV or MP3 when it's done.

Start from a track you love

Paste a YouTube link or upload a file, pick a genre, and the AI reads its tempo, key, tone and loudness. It suggests synth presets, a mix and a mastering chain you can apply, and undo, in one click.

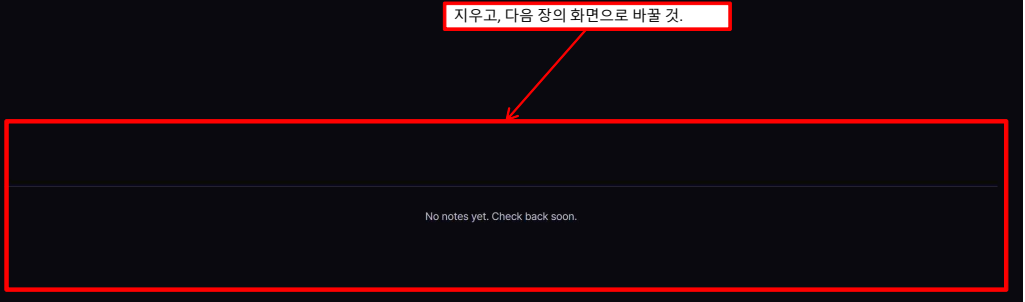

Make it together, live

Invite your crew to the same project and edit at once, like a shared doc. See who is working on which track, leave comments on the timeline, and talk it through in the project chat.
